WESTWARD HO! 1965-66 VOL.35

PRINCIPAL'S MESSAGE

Principal R..G. Gooday

Congratulations to all at "Western" who have made this thirty-sixth volume of "Westward Ho!" a reality. Especially I salute the Student Editorial Committee that has charted so capably the new course followed since last September. The changed format of this yearbook is a marked improvement; the theme is true to the ambitions and achievements of this school year; layouts and art work and articles are distinctive, a credit to the students and staff advisors working together.

As you know, a school is more than a building with dignified stone entrances and ivy-clad walls; it is essentially the interrelationship of many minds, together seeking to grow toward a new personal-social maturity. So the potential of our School is great: some three thousand personalities mingling daily – students with all manner of backgrounds; a highly specialized staff of equally varied social, educational and vocational experience. Living together for these concentrated hours each day – in classroom and shop, with club or choir or team – the impact is tremendous. "Westward Ho!" is the record and the proof. The Editors, the Students' Council, the Graduating Class of '66, indeed each one of us, can be proud to be part of such a student body.

"Westward Ho!" began as a rallying cry in the seaport towns of England over four hundred years ago, a challenge to high adventure for all generations seeking a New World and a new way of life beyond the seas. It is reassuring to know that the same courage to undertake constructive change lives on in your generation. May I say personally it is a pleasure to work with you, and with the staff to wish you all success – a lifetime of satisfaction as you continue together to create your own new world year by year.

R. Gooday.

This, the 35th edition of the Westward Ho!, re-creates the atmosphere of the school year through a candid view of the students and teachers as they progressed with learning and teaching, respectively. The yearbook, with its improved photography, selected literature, expert lay-out and professional printing of the material, bound in this durable hard cover, is certainly a priceless possession for every Western student.

We, the editors, thank, gratefully, all the typists, photographers, reporters, writers, and staff advisors for their efforts. We are especially in debt to Mr. R. D. Burley, whose devotion and determination kept the Westward Ho! in progress. A very special thank you also goes to our Principal, Mr. R. G. Gooday, whose willing co-operation made this yearbook a reality.

President's Message

This year the Students' Council has been working hard drawing up a constitution to mark the beginning of a Junior Council at Western. In the near future, the representatives of this Council will pass into upper school with experience in the operation of such a responsible organization.

The council is not only the elected body but also each and every student at Western. Western can only be strong if each one of us does our duty.

What is our duty? Let us take each letter separately.

"D" is for denial. We don't emphasize self-denial these days but concentrate on our wants. The world does not give without payment. It offers rich opportunities and a struggle that will never be won by self-indulgence. By denying ourselves we may miss the nice, easy things that are so pleasant to have - - we end up serving someone bigger than ourselves.

"U" is for unity. Students of Western have the opportunity of choosing from three types of courses within one school. Where else may students gain the knowledge and experience of working together with mutual understanding although our abilities and interests are so deversified?

"T" is for truth. "I would be true - - for there are those who trust me."

If you accept a task, be true to yourself and your council by doing everything in your ability to complete your commitment.

"Y" is for youth. We are a youthful group with a buoyant surge which, utilized in the proper direction, can lead us to greater things.

The Council is important for school spirit - - the solid foundation of an enthusiastic school. If you do your duty to Western, this spirit will be strengthened and you will have many years of happy memories.

COMMENCEMENT

REMEMBRANCE DAY

Address to the school assemb'y by William Scadding 5S12A

Remembrance Day is a time of sadness, a time of sorrow, and a time to remember all those who gave freely and willingly of their lives that we might be free. How can we escape from this sad depressing level of remorse? The only way out is up. Look up to the future, to a brighter time in store. Let us not forget that war not only destroyed men and their property but also created-created some intangible beautiful thing inside the soul, a thing worth keeping, a light to future generations.

We cannot thank them now but we can grow up with a deep and honest respect for peace. Nothing can be done to change the past but the future lies before us like a clean slate. Our ancestors were willing to fight for our freedom and we should be willing to work to keep it. One of the ways we can help is to get a good education. We not only need knowledge, but also good judgement, sympathy, and tolerance to aid us in making significant decisions in the future.

All great educators agree that there are three basic aspects of education. The nature, of body, soul, and mind. To be an excellent athlete or to be a bookworm or to be both is not enough. Our education systems today cater to the nature of the mind and the body, but leave out perhaps the most important, the nature of the soul or spirit. We must learn to live happily with other people.

Today we see obvious signs of corruption in society even in the highest levels. We must face this corruption now, and with God's help try and live decent upright lives. Then we can grow together with our neighbours to make our country great and with our friends across the seas, to make the world a better place in which to live. Our true enemies are not flesh and blood, they are not the Russians or the other side, but frequently we are our own worst enemies. Our true foes are products of our own creation – pride and bigotry which lead to oppression and hate. These are the moral foes that we must fight against and conquer. Taking a sincere interest in the welfare of all the people in the world community and a return to spiritual values would do a great deal to improve conditions in our society. The world is a stage and each must play a part. We have a part to play in the building of our country. Each person is essential. You, one person standing alone pushing a pencil along a paper may feel insignificant. But if you join with the 2700 other students here at Western and we in turn join together with the 19 million other people, we are proud to call ourselves Canadians, we can work together and grow together to make Canada a greater and better place.

Young people today don't care. We mourn for those who died that we might have freedom but we don't appreciate these freedoms. We have freedom of speech, but we don't speak out. We have freedom in this democracy to choose our leaders but we are generally uninterested in political matters. We have freedom of religion, but we don't worship.

Not until we as teenagers really begin to live, to challenge, and to grow, mentally, physically and spiritually will our country ever grow. We must face the challenges of today with an open mind. We must question when doubt exists. We must support when surety exists. Each of us must contribute whatever we can to the betterment of our country. If Remembrance Day can teach us to be a little wiser than preceeding generations, then it has completely fulfilled its purpose. These men were great but we can and must be greater.

Let us now lead the way for others to follow. We can look back to remember, but let us always be looking ahead to the future. As Canada in 1939 replied to the challenge of war, so we now should reply to our challenge. These men gave of themselves so that we might live. So LIVE – grow, learn, and be something that was worth dying for. Have a purpose in life. The way was prepared by those who died. Now we must give ourselves but for higher and greater things. These men gave us a challenge, a challenge to live. Let us now play our parts in building our country. With God's guidance we can and will achieve our goal.

On this Remembrance Day, let us remember not just the men who died, but also the challenge they gave us.

"Take up our quarrel with the foe:
To you from failing hands we throw
The torch, be yours to hold it high".

Literary

have you ever heard the sounds of two feet marching or felt the power of one hand praying

Forget the war below the kicking dust
Forget the epitaphs etched on bleeding backs
Remember only love that brings the quiet dawn and peace that lays you down to sleep
Ignore burning bodies cooled by Cold War cells filled with minds forced to forget
Rejoice in young hands holding high placards screaming for peace
Where are the armies marching to the beat of their own drum for Dark corners are full of gods as pedestals are crowded with cowards.

Seek a lonely tree
far from the path of life
There bask in your dreams lie in sands of forgetfulness
Think not of tomorrow
but let the wind scatter your thoughts
But is there not a shadow following you
But God is on your side
and peace holds you by the hand
And the footsteps echoing behind you will never came closer
And the blade above your head
will never weaken and fall
For you have heard the two feet marching and have felt the hand praying
But is it Peace coming or Death

The Old Guard

The clicking of heels upon sidewalk,
The blaring horns of cars, with enraged
Drivers, and the brash neon lights
All serve to intimidate the unwary stranger.

The flood of life flows past him.
He will not join the torrents, for
He knows not how. He stands at a street
Corner, immobile, unknowing and Alone.

He appears now, like a giant guardian
Of the old gates of Eden. He stands against
The droves of spoilers, who bring
With them Destruction. He stands Alone.

Now he is the only one standing
At the corner. High human schemes
Have shifted planes, his Eden lies
In ruins. The tide has passed and Will never return. He stands Alone.

Go! Western Go!

The bell tolled 3:05 on a Wednesday afternoon and the excited cheerleading candidates could be seen scurrying to the girls' gym for the final judging. After a week of strenuous practicing, the girls stood before their severe critics. Each group of five girls did a few cheers during which they were judged by height of jump, graceful landing, and general effect. The girls waited full of hope while the judges formed a little huddle and whispered their results. The winners were Christine Binder, Sherrie Edmonds, Caroline Sherrie, Diane Lubinski, Linda Gilson, Claire Burgess, and Vera Mickalaiv. Full of pep and enthusiasm, the seven girls began working as a team immediately. Their hard work showed that they were determined to bring pride to Western. For their Captain, they unanimously elected Chris Binder who herself has proven to be the kind of Captain every Cheerleading team hopes for.

The football season came with excitement galore. Through rain and shine the girls faithfully cheered Western's Juniors to the quarter finals, where after meeting Northern, they suffered an unexpected defeat. Their first chance to cheer at Varsity Stadium came on a chilly November day at T.S.S.A.A. Finals. This proved to be a lucky day for Sherrie Edmonds, for she was chosen to represent Western in the 'Miss Cheerleader' contest.

Throughout the year our cheerleaders encouraged Western's Basketball, Hockey and Track Teams.

The girls of the Cheerleading Team would like to thank Miss Duncan who advised and supervised us all year long, sharing our joys as well as our disappointments. We sincerely thank Mr. Gooday and Mr. MacArthur whose cooperation has been deeply appreciated. We give our warmest thanks to the entire student body whose enthusiastic faces we see in the stands cheering Western on to victory.

Classes

Our class is said to be fickle,
Usually we are in a pickle.
Although our numbers are few,
No grass grows under our shoe.
Perhaps some day we'll show
Just how fast we can go.

Our little congregation consists of varying types of characters. There's A who is intelligent or so he thinks. B who is rather a bully and chums with the "hoods" C, D, E, F and G. There's H, the class clown. Then there is I (me) who chums with J who is much liked.

We students have high expectations. Some of us have gotten 92% in foundry and 79% in sheet metal. We may have fallen a little behind but we're doing our best to rectify that in the OF class.

Each year, Western devotes two weeks to promoting and supporting the United Appeal. This year, the student fund-raising campaign took place in the first two weeks of October.

The emphasis was on giving for the sake of helping people less fortunate than ourselves. Our incentive was provided by movies and speeches in the auditorium services, in co-operation with the United Appeal Agency.

There were class collections and donations. Many classes undertook projects which made the campaign enjoyable for students and teachers alike. George Bell Arena was rented for a student-teacher hockey game, with free skating afterwards. Two recent movies, "Palm Springs Weekend" and "Father Goose" were shown in the auditorium. Sales of everything from cake and cakes to beanies and shakers were held in the two week interval. There was even a football game between the girls from Humberside and the Western girls, which resulted in a scoreless tie and a lot of fun.

Although these two weeks were interrupted by school football games and a long weekend, the students of Western really got behind the project, and with the teachers' co-operation a sum of $1718.34 was raised, the second largest amount of money ever collected at Western for the United Appeal.

Two Western players were injured in this game.

October 22 - Parkdale-Western

Touchdowns in the first and fourth quarters enabled Parkdale to register and keep playoff hopes alive. Plastina of Parkdale conceded a safety touch to Western's Ken Janes for the Loser's point. Marco Gastis of Western suffered a head injury in the fourth quarter.

Parkdale Juniors won over Western. Gary Thompson scored Western's major and Arne Kartna kicked the single.

SUNFLOWER

Have you ever transported a sunflower? I am an expert at carrying the clumsy things and here is an account of my experience.

If I had known a sunflower would bring so much hardship, I would never have volunteered to take it for our science class. On Monday morning, I mounted the streetcar with a huge load of school books and my beautiful sunflower, measuring five and a half feet in height. As I stepped on the top step, my sunflower fell from its wrapper. While the streetcar driver held my books, I pushed it back into its paper, but the head refused to stay in and bobbed insolently from side to side. The streetcar was crowded and I had to remain standing. The car gave a sudden jerk and the flower head bobbing over my shoulder gave the man standing behind me a whack on the head. As I turned to apologize to him the sunflower took the advantage to turn and hit the man standing beside me. He gave me a disgusted look and cleared from his suit the seeds which were falling from the flower. It remained swaying cheerfully, its head held high with an air of dignity, sharing its summer glory with everyone whether they desired it or not. This plant had caused me so much embarrassment and misery that I was determined to carry out my orders.

I managed to get off the car in spite of my handicap but my sunflower – it was imprisoned in the quickly closed doors. Letting my books fall, I ran beside the streetcar now beginning to pull away, yelling desperately, "My sunflower". The car by now was filled with funny looking bulging faces and roars of laughter. A man managed to notify the driver who stopped and released my sunflower.

The stem was broken and the head now sadly drooped. I taped the wound with a piece of tape. The teacher, ignorant of what had happened said calmly that the stem was broken. I stuttered that I would never take a sunflower to school again. When I was asked why, I said that it was a long question and life was too short to start to answer it.

HER THREE S's

If you're worried at having nightmares at night, relax! I have my nightmares in the morning when my sister tries to fix her hair. There she is spinning her web, making sure every hair is teased to knots. She then picks up a can of hairspray and away she goes starching every single hair. Picking up a brush with half the bristles missing, she flattens half an inch of her hair and starts to create what she calls a new style. Sometimes her style does not turn out the way she wants it to and she starts screaming until her hair rises up again. She tries again. This time she transfers from the bedroom to the bathroom, taking with her hairpins, ten assorted combs, spray, bows, bands and her transistor radio. She says it is easier to fix her hair when the radio is at full blast. She starts again from the beginning, spin, spray, scream. She calls this regular routine her three S's. Believe me, this routine can almost drive you crazy.

AS IF CREATED BY MAN

The sea is an instrument of Fate's dark hand,
It works for the Devil it seems sometimes.
Taking the breath from old and young into its endless inferno,
As if created by man.

The sea is calm, the sea is rough, as if waiting,
To rise at once and seek its prey – the helpless mortal man,
And engulf him into its cold ghastly whirlpool
of bones and splinters,
As if created by man.

The sea is a neverceasing hand of Fate,
Waiting, hoping and consciously biding its time,
In want of you,
As if created by man.

DEATH

Death everywhere. Death up the battlefield, flowing among the foxholes and trenches; death down the battlefield rolling defiled among the tired and battle-fatigued men. Death in Regina Trench. Death on Vimy Ridge. Death creeping into everyone's heart, death lying under every fallen man and hovering in every foot hole, death hanging on every drop of spilled blood. Death in the eyes and throats of every veteran general; death whizzing by every battle command, death in every hospital bed and ambulance; death cruelly looking from every rifle and bayonet in the eyes of the enemy. Chance people on the ridges peeping over the trench into the dungeon of death, with death all around them, as if they were trapped in the "Fires of Hell".

I HAVE TO REMEMBER

Guilty! How could the jury find me guilty? Why didn't they know that I had nothing to do with the girl's murder? I only tried to stop that man from killing her. I couldn't just stand there and watch. But how did I get a hold of his bloody knife? How did he get away from me? No wonder the police thought I was the killer.

The face of that man is so familiar, but I just can't remember who he is. I know I've seen that ugly, pockmarked face before somewhere. But where? In ten minutes they're going to hang me for a crime I didn't commit. If I could only remember who that man was! I've got to remember! He's the only one who can save me now!

I wish the preacher would keep quiet. I've got to think! Who was that man? Bah! This cigarette's sour! Never mind the cigarette! Concentrate! I've got to concentrate! Time's running out! I think I hear the guards coming for me.

I must have met him several years ago. Maybe we did business together. No, not with him! But what? Where? Who is he? Was he the TV repairman, the newspaper vendor, the milkman, the mailman? No, impossible! I just know I've met him somewhere! If I only knew where! Why can't I attach a name to the ugly face?

Warden, don't pull on my shirt! I can't think! Please, don't walk so fast! I need a little more time. This corridor's so long, so dead looking. Hey guys, stop staring at me! Getting distracted! Don't let yourself get distracted! Got to think! Yes, think! Gallows not for me. He should be hung, not me. Don't put the rope around my neck yet! Who was that man? Wait! Chicago!! Of course! I met him in Chicago! I remember it all now! I remem----

We think 4B9A is terribly good.
We come from the same brotherhood
We answer the questions the teachers ask,
Because we know this is our task.
Good or bad we hove one greot yen,

4B9B are really very good,
Tho' our teachers say our heads are wood.
Mr. Ripley our "ward-master",
Swears that some of us he'll plaster.
If any of us are to pass at all,
It'll be an order mighty tall.

Girls, Girls, everywhere,
Talk, chew gum, and comb their hair.
Wherever we stand, wherever we are,
Everyone knows we're not too far.
Our girls though, have smartened up,
Four B Nine C, will win the cup.

4B9D
Nicer girls you've never seen.
We're a good group, some teachers say;
The only thing, can we stay that way?
But as to this, some might debate.

4B9E
We think a lot of 4B9E
If you don't believe me, come and see
Our teachers think we're great,
Always on time, not usually late.
Swimmers here are very keen,
We've even joined the volleyball team.

4B9F

There was a group called 4B9F
Who came in sizes short and tall
And were the champs in volleyball
Good in sports and great in class
We're the ones that will always pass.

4B9G

Every morning when we come to school
We go to class and pull up a stool.
No matter what happens or whatever may be,
We're proud to be pupils in 4B9G.
And after our year has come to an end
We still consider one another as a friend.

4B9H

Our class 4B9H is really great,
We're always in by half past eight.
We always have our homework done,
And still have time for lots of fun.
Our class president is Joanne Twist,
Without her, all the school news we'd miss.

4B9I

Rah, Rah, for 4B9I.
Since it's an all girl class,
We have quite a ball.
We're all for one, and one for all.
Our teacher, Mrs. Perigoe is our queen,
We're her slaves cause she's not Mean.

There is a class in WTCS
That rates among the very best.
You'll find 4B10B in Portable three
Always working as hard as can be.

4S10C's in the choir, orchestra, fencing club
We're in the greatest hub-a-hub.
We make our clothes, sew every seam,
And have our fun, just sit and dream.
Please listen to our sad tale,
But don't come in unless you're male.

We're an all girl class 4B10D with nary a boy that we can see. We whisper, we giggle, we yakkity-yak. We're afraid our teachers are starting to crack. But we're girls, not machines, with their clackety-clack, and we're sure grade eleven will welcome us back.

PROBABLE FUTURES: Bottle-washers, soup tasters, spaghetti stretchers, flag-pole sitters, pole vaulters and diaper folders, are the girls from 4B10H1.

4B10R1 has different styles, some of which can be seen for miles. Our class has a certain spirit which unites us and these lyrics. Keeping our friendship together, is important to us forever.

Walk right in, don't knock on the door man, we're the cats you're looking for. The greatest class in the school is 4B10R2. You'll love us and we love you, we're hard workers and rarely play, but we're not like that every day.

4B11D – We have football heroes, and runners, and music lovers too,
Some Hummingbirds that sing for Mr. Black
And had a little cheerleader, the cutest of the pack.
Our motto will always stay alive,
Life begins at three O five.

4B11Hi's not the best shorthand class, but Mr. Bowman patiently puts up with us. For the United Appeal we donated our talents for a cake bake and we have volunteers working at the hospitol.

When I mention the class of "5B9A"
I can assure you trouble is on its way.
A class like ours is one of a kind.
We drive our teachers out of their mind.

In 5B10A there are forty-one

But out in sports, they're just not there!

In most of the rooms 4S9AB's very quiet.
Because we're planning to start a riot.
For causing trouble we win the prize.
When we arrive, each teacher cries.
Even though we may have our faults,
Just think, some day we'll be adults.

4SOCD's President: Enzo DiPasquantonio. Troublemakers: Too numerous to mention. Favourite occupation of the class? Huddling around the small wood stove flickering feebly at the back of the room. Teacher and class are inflamed in a burning desire to convert to coal before the stinging winds of winter do blow.

4S9EF is not what you would call a perfect class or a bad class, but we are fairly well-behaved.

4S9GH Interests: BP – girls, JB – electronics, TR – girls, BH – girls, BO – don't know, LZ – soccer, RT – electronics, TF – sports, JM – California beaches, JD – drafting, TS – welding, RB – airplane models.

SENIOR BASKETBALL

Ike Lindenburger and Ivan Millar were the outstanding players of the team as were Stuart Ferguson and Creg Cooper. The team should be given credit for their hard efforts as they never gave up.

JUNIOR BASKETBALL

This year's Juniors did better than ever. Led by Venice Loreto and Greg Zwyzdaryk, the team won 8 out of the 10 regular season games. In the quarter-finals, they defeated Riverdale by scores of 66-53 and 43-30. This allowed them to the semi-finals where they beat Monarch Park by 39-25 and 35-34. Then came that big game, for the City Championship. On March 4th, the final was held at Jarvis Collegiate; the contenders: Western versus North Taronto.

Junior Basketball FINALISTS

Inter-School Christion Fellowship Club

The Club here at Western is one of about forty throughout the Toronto Area. It is a 'bunch' of Christian students whose motto is "to know Christ and to make Him known". The word 'bunch' is used because that is exactly what we are: just a group of individuals all bound or clinging together to a common "Vine", with a common Friend.

Our meetings include such things as films, specially aimed at teens, interesting Bible studies, challenging debates and discussions and special guest speakers.

Many special events and meetings have been held during the past school year. At Christmas time, our club, together with the Red Cross held a food hamper campaign and collected about 1200 cans of food to make twenty-three large food hampers, which along with turkeys supplied by the school's Red Cross club were delivered to needy families of the area, thus making their Christmas' just a little more enjoyable.

In January our club sponsored two panel discussions on pupil-teacher relationships. "The Care and Feeding of Teachers" and "The Care and Feeding of Students", panels of students and teachers respectively, were held to discuss the ideal teacher and student, faults found in teachers and in students, and so on. Between one hundred and fifty and two hundred and twenty-five attended both meetings, each including over twenty-five teachers. Through these meetings we hope we have improved even slightly the relationship between students and teachers and at least created some understanding between them.

A few weeks later another panel discussion on "Aims in Life" was held and a number of interesting points of view as to what a student's real aims or motives in life are, were discussed. Many other interesting films, special discussions, and an assortment of meetings and activities have all helped to make this year's programme interesting to all.

Also included in our Club's programme were numerous socials held throughout the year. One such party, a 'Skate and Hootenany' drew over one-hundred students from Western and nearby schools. Other activities include bowling, roller-skating, horseback riding etc., followed by a pizza party or such at one of the members' homes.

Our city-wide cabinet this year held some real treats for us. In September, back-to-school was celebrated with a Beach Bake on Centre Island, which drew over three hundred kids from nearly every school in the city. In October, a work camp was held over the Thanksgiving Weekend at "Campus in the Woods", I.S.C.F.'s camp on Lake of Bays. Numerous Sports Nights and Ski Weekends were held throughout the year and on April 22 our annual Spring Banquet at Hart House, honouring the graduating club members closed off the year's activities.

During the summer months numerous camps will be held at 'Campus in the Woods'. Leadership Camp, High School Camp, and Teens' Camp held in June, July, and August respectively draw students from all over the United States and Canada.

Yes, our I.S.C.F. Club at Western is a club that is very much alive. Our secret: we serve a living God, a God who is truly alive in the hearts of all those who know Him.

Sid Thompson (14) takes a face-off.

Referee raises hand as Western player scores.

The 1965-66 season saw the strongest Western hockey team yet. By means of excellent coaching, determined spirit and hard skating, the team fought their way to the finals. During regular season play, Alfie Reverso's slapshooting and Wayne MacPherson's stickhandling carried the team through one victory after another. Sid Thompson was the highest scorer in the city with 14 goals and 6 assists in 10 games; he was also the only player in the Western Division to be chosen on the First All-Star Team. A lot of credit has to be given to the fine defence played by Dave Paolini, John Cottrel, Wally Parolin and John Chute. A main factor in winning so many games goes to the outstanding goal-tending by Glenn Paterson.

Finishing the season with an 8-1-1 record, Western quickly disposed of North Toronto in two successive games by scores of 8-2 and 6-2. The team, with all Western behind them, then prepared for the biggest game of the year: the Final. On March 4th, a very determined Western hockey team, supported by an enthusiastic Western crowd, met stiff opposition from Malvern Collegiate at Maple Leaf Gardens for the City Championship.

This year, for the first time Western had a girls' Junior and Senior Basketball Team. With the games getting underway around the middle of January, Western found stiff competition against the more experienced teams – Parkdale, Bloor, and Humberside. The girls all enjoyed themselves however, and are looking forward to next year's season.

This year classes for basketball referees were organized by Angela Andreff.

Senior Basketball Teams

With the knowledge and experience gained from these classes, the girls were able to referee inter-form basketball games with much success.

On behalf of the girls we wish to express our appreciation to Miss Conklin for her assistance. She willingly donated her time before and after school hours to help the girls in every way. The girls would also like to thank Angela for giving helpful coaching hints.

4S11VW is made up of 14 boys, 9 in auto mechanics and 5 in welding. Their course of study is long and hard. It is a great challenge to them. They want to be called welders and auto mechanics when they're finished school, so they keep working hard to achieve that goal.

Western Tech dethrones Malvern while Paterson sizzles in goal

By ED WARING

Glen Paterson, who says he froze the last time he played in a Toronto Secondary Schools Athletic Association hockey final, was hot last night when Western Tech defeated Malvern 2-1 to win this year's championship.

The 20-year-old goalkeeper, who plays for a team in an industrial league in addition to the school team, has given up his ambition of becoming a professinnal hockey player. Any scouts in the crowd of 4,000 at Maple Leaf Gardens last night might have been interested in him.

Three years ago, when Malvern wnn the title for the third successive seasnn, Paterson was in the nets for Western. The score was reversed that time.

"I just frnze," said the jubilant netminder after last night's game, "but I decided tnnight would he different so I didn't let anything bother me."

Western's victory broke the east-enders' five-year hold on the championship. The last time Malvern lnst in the finals was against Western.

It was Paterson's spectacular goalkeeping that stopped Malvern from repeating this year. In the last period he kicked out 18 shnts as against five by his opposite number, Al Turnell.

Although the checking was hard the game was clean compared to some played during the regular seasnn.

After a goalless first period, during which Malvern were thwarted several times hy Paterson when close on goal, Western took a 2-0 lead in the seennd period.

Wayne McPhersnn opened the scoring at the four-minute mark on a pass from Ken Jones from a play started by Alf Riverso. With less than a minute to play in the period, John Cuttrell took the puck at his own blueline, manoeuvred around two Malvern players and shot the puck past Turnell.

Malvern's defenseman Ted Valleau scored at eight minutes of the third period to raise the hopes of the red-shirt supporters.

Western played without Syd Thompson, who was named all-star centre by the association earlier in the week. Thompson was sidelined because of a cold.

Star for Malvern was rightwinger John Thompson who peppered Paterson with shots from all angles but couldn't get the puck past him.

Diving Club

In March our newly organized diving team captured second, third, and fifth places at the T.S.S.A.A. diving finals. Their success as a new team must be credited to 8 a.m. practices under the supervision of Miss Elder and Mr. Flanagan.

Swim Team

Splash! Western takes to the water. "Swimming every day" was the word passed around by the thirty members of Western's swim team. Our goal was to swim further and faster than one walks in a day. With morning sessions under Mr. Flanagan and afternoons coached by Mr. Philipps, results began to show. Western's senior team sprinted to victory in the west city zone with wins against Fort Erie, Parkdale, Humberside, Bloor and Central Tech. In the T.S.S.A.A. dual meet finals, Western placed third, against Lawrence Park and Riverdale. Congratulations to Norm Sanford, Al Martin and Bill Hurdman, our team captains for their enthusiasm and organization. The season finished with a trip to London to the Ontario swimming finals.

5S9CD's President is Barry Shaw. He leads an illustrious group who, or which plays a role in the Red Cross, the Propbusters, Bantam Football, Fencing, and the Electricity Club.

Mr. Chave's 5S9EF is another group of bright lights beginning the long haul. President Ken Douglas represents the group on formal occasions. The Scholarship winners – give us a chance. Our form has a particular interest in football, swim team, Propbusters, and girls, Look for us next year in grade ten.

The Rule of Conformity

No man is an island unto himself. A society creates laws to protect itself from disintegration, morally and culturally.

If a man refuses to comply with the standards of that society he is outlawed.

If a man seeks to alter the code of his society he is an outcast.

If a man wishes to do what he believes to be right, but which is contrary to the accepted rules of the society, he is deemed a rebel.

These people who will not or cannot conform to the society are branded categorically as neuratics, atheists, depressives; the list is endless. Every society has its own "black list" of non-conformists, whether the breach in the rules is of a religious or cultural nature.

To enforce the laws of conformity, the society uses every available weapon. High-ranking religious officials are the most obvious and basic means employed to subdue the "abnormal". Yet, the most powerful deterrent against non-conformity remains public opinion. This overwhelmingly powerful, but nevertheless unstable, monster is activated and monitored by various puppeteers: television to press, love-mongers to hate-mongers.

In its eternal struggle for survival, a society will employ ruthless tactics and unreasonable demands to suppress the radically different and the religiously unorthodox.

Prejudice born of fear, fear bred of ignorance, ignorance based on prejudice – this vicious cycle serves as the driving force for society's fight for existence.

Othmar Von Bogen S13C

The Waterfall

Louder and louder grew the thunderous roar,
As we walked slowly, up the shady glen,
And saw the rocky bed where wild waters tore
Falling from high o'erhead.

Brightly the sun shone on it all,
Casting rainbows in the dancing spray,
As colourful as the birds that call,
All through the summer day.

Splashing on the rocks, washing up on shore,
Roaring on down out of sight,
Falling, falling forever more,
Through all eternity.

Miles to Go Before I Sleep

Ahead a resting place for a body filled with weariness
But . . . around me I hear muffled cries covered by blackness
Hear fallings of those groping in darkness for a light put out
These I pass in the night
Searching for those in silent places too weary or blind to cry out
My outstretched arms embrace only hollow forms and empty footprints
I must shut my eyes
to forget what I now know
and cannot do
My own body cries out for rest
Alas! the light is gone
For shadows can't hide pain
nor lessen suffering
They can only give us an excuse to forget
by destroying vision
I stumble on yet weary
But no rest comes for on my back lies burden of silence
And on my feet
shackles of ignorance

A Footloose Vacation

Have you ever, as one of three lone girls, been out on the ocean for nine days with approximately forty-five males and survived? Did you ever spend leisure time swimming and swinging it with the Jet Set along the French and Italian Rivieras and not end up marrying a millionaire? Are you accustomed to sleeping in caves and moving up and down the Riviera in a real cool red convertible, or having crowds follow you because you wore bermuda shorts? Have you ever travelled through Europe with three Chianti bottles, a huge green bottle in a casket, and two, two-foot high Cognac bottles and all your luggage?

No?? Well then read on and I'll tell you how it is done.

I left Montreal by freighter for Swansea, Wales. I was alone, had no timetable and had no idea where I would go next. There were also two Australian girls on board and we proved to a boat full of typically English males that females could take over any day.

My only means of travel through Europe was hitch-hiking, and I joined forces with a group of those long-haired English blokes – and I mean long-haired. The English weather was a problem; I was soaked all the time.

Something you should not miss while in London is Hyde Park Corner. Here on top of ladders, chairs, soap boxes and weird contraptions, the dissatisfied speak their mind on – too much salt in chili beans, etc. You'll never have laughed so much before.

Then it was across the Channel to France and the warmth of the sun by the Mediterranean. Slowly I moved along the coast to Marseille, St. Tropez, Cannes, Nice and Monte Carlo. I sort of had a race with the Tour de France, as I kept running (or should I say bicycling) into them. It really is a sight to see, with all the newsmen and television crew riding along in sportscars and the excitement of the crowd watching.

All this time I had been sleeping in Youth Hostels, but in Sete they did not have enough room; so I ended up sleeping in a cave. Great fun if you like spiders!

I visited my uncle who lives along the Mediterranean near Nice and then on July 12 I flew from Nice to Rome. At the airport two fully-dressed Arabs with knives in their belts greeted me and escorted me into Rome – my sister and her girl friend fresh from Syria and the Bedouins.

In Rome we really got into things. We organized a youth rally in front of the Trevi Fountain and, among other things, got caught in a transportation strike.

Along the Italian Riviera I found the swingingest youth hostel in all of Europe, where guitars never stop playing.

Yodeling, mountain climbing and snowball fights in August were the highlights of Switzerland.

Paris was next and the atmosphere there was something you would never find here. You could stay up all night and at dawn go to the markets. The Flea Market was especially fun to go to and even if you didn't find a bargain, you had a lot of fun looking for one. I visited Christian Dior (came out still clutching my money), the famed Folies Bergere, and numerous art galleries.

We left Paris reluctantly and made for Holland, from where the boat for New York was leaving. It was an American-built ship – had a Dutch name – a Greek flag – Greek sailors – a Greek captain who communicated in French with a Dutch staff – and mostly American passengers. Slightly confused? I sincerely hoped a difference of opinion would not arise between Rotterdam and New York. Considerable time would have been lost in establishing a communication line.

I had hoped to rest up during the trip but with Hurricane Betsy after us and eight hundred students on board, what could you do!

Time

It was not long ago I walked in yesterday's memories.
Now I must go where life leads me, death.

TIME

For one to be robbed of his existence is most unfair
To him; and all that is in your keeping,

TIME

Go back intruder of life, destroyer of existence.
Go back for I dread the future,

TIME

Now I bow to thee as the living and the yet to live shall bow.
Now I must go where life leads me, death.

Hell on the High Seas

Ray Dunn 4S12G

Up the rat lines, and make all sail,
That was the order given.
But before the sheets could catch the wind,
Our mizzen-mast was riven.

The stately Spanish galleon,
Of o'er a hundred guns,
Bore down upon our frigate
Of a lowly twenty-one.

We came about with cannon ready
To fight our hopeless fight.
Their shot was landing all about
And smoke hid the sun from sight.

We moved in closer and closer yet.
Our deck with dead was ridden.
But finally we came about
And a broadside we did give 'em.

The high and mighty Spaniard
Could not bring his guns to bear.
So we played him as the ungainly hound
And we the wily hare.

The men worked fast and reloaded guns
As round her stern we went.
And emerging on her farther side
Some gaping holes we rent.

Holes below their water line,
Holes both fore and aft,
We pulled away from the burning hulk
As with explosives she was racked.

We saw the flames leap from her hold,
And from the high poop window.
We saw explosions shake her frame
And blow her into Limbo.

Well into the evening
With explosions she was tossed,
Until, burned to the water line,
The grandiose ship was lost.

No man survived that devil ship,
And so we sailed away.
Sailed home to tend our many wounds
And fight another day.

Geography Department

These are the photos of our Geography teachers. Though only six full-time 'Geographers' assisted by several others, they constitute Ontario's largest Geography Department.

One would think that such a distinction merits a montage of pictures showing how these gentlemen apply themselves in the task of teaching. It is the editor's thankless duty to acknowledge that . . . we had to fall down somewhere, and it was here. Spoiled negatives and the pressure of deadlines.

Look for the Geography teachers in next year's book — they're terrific!

To live and learn with Canadian pride.
The stitching and sewing we agree
Is similar on either side of the sea.
But with food prepared in so many ways,
There's an "esprit de corps" on the cooking days.

What is flying a Plane? A thrill, a chollenge, or a puzzlement? It's a battle against nature, against the law of gravity. It's a skill in your hands. It's knowledge learned for the knowing alone. Flying a plane is all of these. And yet much more! I tell you this, that you may believe. Yet you cannot know, unless you find out.

Valedictory Address

For us graduates, this is the evening we have anticipated for four long years. Tonight we recall the apprehensions we all experienced on first entering Western's doors. We were frightened because we did not know what Western held in store for us. There were so many new faces and so many new routines. Gradually, however, we began to realize that our goal in high school would be to walk across this stage to receive our graduation diplomas, and we have succeeded in this. Tonight we experience mixed emotions. We are happy because we recall our pleasant years at Western; years filled with many memories. But we are also sad because we know that this evening we will leave this familiar atmosphere.

How could we ever forget our studies of Shakespeare and of the Pythagorean Theory? How could we ever forget the fall and the winter when we cheered in vain for our football and hockey teams. We were always proud of them for their efforts and for their good sportsmanship. We will always remember our grand Christmas Music Festival, our Annual Open House, our Spring Prom, and our United Appeal Campaign in which we all played a most important part. No longer will we have to 'lend an ear' to Algebra solutions and no longer will we have to write out conjugations 'vingt-cinq fois'. We all remember how very slowly the last five minutes before lunch went by and how very quickly we all managed to get to the cafeteria at the sound of the bell. Yes, these are happy memories and they will be with us always.

Among our happy memories will be the memories of friends we grew fond of at Western. These friends were our teachers. They taught us and willingly gave us their valuable time to help us with our special little problems. They gave us so much and asked so little in return, but we never stopped to realize how sincerely dedicated they were to making this evening possible for us and not for themselves. It is unfortunate that it often takes an event such as Commencement to make us realize the debt we owe our teachers for their patience, courage, devotion, and most of all, their excellent teaching. Mr. Phillips, our former principal, and our vice-principals, met the demands of their jobs with the polished skill and determination that characterize the true professional. They taught and guided us in order that we may be successful and useful citizens, and for this we shall be forever grateful. Merely saying 'Thank You' to our teachers, principals, and office staff, certainly cannot express the true thanks we feel in our hearts tonight.

This Commencement is also a very special event for another group of people in the audience; those wonderful, middle-aged people, our parents. They, more than anyone else, made us the accomplished young ladies and gentlemen we are today. From the very first moment they first held us in their arms, to our graduation they watched us grow up with loving tenderness and fondness. Many of the parents here tonight are immigrants who came to Canada and made great sacrifices in order that we, their children, may have a better education than they themselves had. In our most difficult and trying times we could always look up to our parents for moral support. Our parents gave us an education that cannot be acquired from any textbook. They were always so understanding especially when we brought home our report cards. But tonight they do not think about reports. Tonight all their hardships and efforts are being rewarded by our presence here. How does one say 'Thank You' to parents who gave so much of themselves, who made so many sacrifices, and who loved us so much? We cannot put our feelings into words. We can only tell them that we love them too.

The time has now come to say good-bye to Western and all its name has meant to us. Western will always be a part of us and we will always be a part of Western. Fellow graduates, a bright future lies ahead of us. Let us make the best of it.

Footnotes

Whenever one is dead tired, worn to a frazzle, and just about to breast the winner's tape, we doubt if that one is ready to give forth in a long-winded dissertation.

Well, such is just the case. We are pounding out the last lines of copy on your 65 – 66 yearbook. We feel the urge to say "Thank the good Lord, we're finished!" Yet we pause to remember what an exciting task it has been, producing your book of memories.

Our conscience is not clear in all respects. Is there anyone whom we have left out? Then he we have offended. Is there anyone whose picture is not flattering? Sorry, Fred! Apologies are bootless for they will not fill the breach. We have our reasons, such as they are.

On this page you see the faces of the unsung heroes that pushed the job along. Reader! You can ask them about the job well done and tell them – they deserve some of the blame.

Editors, Advisors, and staff all feel that this has been a big job on a grand scale. We feel that we have learned. We feel we have done a service to our readers and our school. Hope you feel the same.
